

3

unnatural phrasing and mismatched
contexts

Need to "Show, not tell"
Need to vary language and sentences. Use APPEAL!

Need to focus on building a convincing image.

Use similes
Metaphors Onomatopoeia

TARDIS problem
A bear half the size of a door cannot fit into a single box, with numerous other items inside.

I feel the dust when I opened the box. ^{the} The dust ^{was} everywhere, making it blurry for me to see clearly ^{of} what items is inside the box. After getting the dust away, I see there ~~was~~ is a photograph, a teddy bear and a frame ^{for the photo which still hasn't been placed inside.}

The photograph has yellow colours on it, ^{making it look} like it has been here for ^{a long time} so long. The edges are brown coloured and soft. The paper is thin and smooth, the details are still very clear. In the middle of the photo, there is a girl looking around 6 years old, a old man smiling at the camera in the corner of the photo and a dog sitting next to the girl. A part of my body wants to know about the girl in the photo, but still ^{can't} remember a lot about her. All I remember is that the old man moved to a far away place and never came back. The photo also ^{shows} that the old man tried a lot to keep the dog to sit next to the girl, maybe he is the girl's ^{Grandpa} grandpa?

It feels so quiet here, like the world ^{has become} is completely silent. No laughter. No music. No chatting. When I ^{look} at the teddy bear that is also inside the box, the cotton and the furs seems ^{very high-quality} like it is made of ~~very high-quality~~.

The bear is quite big, the height of it is like half of the door, must have been very expensive at that time. When I ^{take} it up, the dust flew towards me again. After a moment, I ^{start} checking the bear details, the fur feels very comfortable. The bear's infill is ^{so} very solid, filled with a lot of cotton. The bear is covered mainly by dust, making the bear a little gray.

When I ^{picked} up the photo again, it ^{felt} like that I ^{was back} am in that moment again. The dog is running around, breathing heavily. The girl standing in front of the camera. The old man is chasing the dog to get it sit next to the girl. The girl looks like she is in a hurry, ~~her~~ shoe laces weren't tied and didn't comb her hair. Then, the old man finally got the dog to sit next to the girl.

What about these memories? Need to explain context instead of repeating what is there again and again

The moments are gone now, I remember that the event was in the courtyard of ^{the} my house, I walked outside. It is strange that a place ~~that~~ that was filled with popcorn shells and children running around, playing together now becomes so quiet. Bird's sound was the only thing that makes me sure that ~~that~~ I am not the only living creature on earth.

I walked back to the place where the box is, put the photo into the frame and closed the box lid. I walked out of the place full of dust, ~~and~~

$$8 + 12 = 20$$

$$20/40$$

D

8/16 Content and structure

12/24 Writing style and accuracy

- Offers some partially effective images, however the descriptions need to contextually be linked to the prompt
- The picture described needs to be convincing and described with details that have a logical progression
- Need to widen range of vocabulary and sentence structures. Move beyond simple sentence structures and use a variety of devices from A FOREST! (e.g. figurative language)
- Be mindful of SPAG
- Revise descriptive writing structure and plan your paragraphs!

1 Dominant Impression

2 Zoom-in on first object

- point 1

- point 2

3 Zoom-in on second object

- point 1

- point 2

4 Ending